FRANCHISE SYNOPSIS:

Since its debut nearly four decades ago, the Rambo series starring Sylvester Stallone has become one of the most iconic action-movie franchises of all time.

An ex-Green Beret haunted by memories of Vietnam, the legendary fighting machine known as Rambo has freed POWs, rescued his commanding officer from the Soviets, and liberated missionaries in Myanmar. RAMBO: LAST BLOOD marks the last chapter of the legendary series, as Rambo must confront his past and unearth his ruthless combat skills for one final mission.

RAMBO: LAST BLOOD

Almost four decades after he drew first blood, Sylvester Stallone is back as one of the greatest cinematic action legends of all time, John Rambo. Now, Rambo must confront his past and unearth his ruthless combat skills to exact revenge in a climactic and truly personal mission. A thrilling, intense and gritty journey, RAMBO: LAST BLOOD presents audiences with the opportunity to see this iconic character and reluctant hero on the big screen for one final war.

Few characters have captured the imaginations of audiences around the world like Stallone's John Rambo. The character was introduced to moviegoers in First Blood, based on a novel by David Morrell, as an elite Special Forces veteran and war hero skilled in weaponry, hand-to-hand combat, survival tactics, and guerilla warfare – none of which could prepare him for his return to civilian life.

With the help of his former commanding officer, Rambo finds new purpose for his formidable and deadly talents – taking him back to Vietnam to rescue some of his imprisoned brothers-in-arms, in Rambo: First Blood, Part II; to Afghanistan, to come to the aid of his only friend, in Rambo III; and to Myanmar, where he unleashes his fury to help some captured missionaries and villagers, in Rambo.

After years of making his home in remote corners of the globe, Rambo made the fateful decision to return to the U.S., where we last saw him walking down a dusty path to a horse ranch, and past a rusted mailbox inscribed with his family name. John Rambo had finally come home.

RAMBO: LAST BLOOD picks up the character's epic saga, as we find Rambo settled down, and living a quiet life on his family's sprawling ranch in Arizona. Here he's found sanctuary and a sense of belonging, sharing his home with his adoptive family; Maria and her granddaughter Gabriela.

"We are taking a ten-year leap forward since we last saw Rambo," confirms Stallone. "He has long been removed from society but now seems to want to become a part of it. He's been accepted into a family he loves, and wants to take care of them."

Rambo has become a paternal figure to Gabriela, whose mother had long passed, and whose abusive father had abandoned her and never looked back. Alongside Maria, Rambo raised the young girl as his own. To him, she is the only thing that is pure and true in this world.

Now a teenager and curious about her past, Gabriela goes in search of her biological father. She wants to judge the man for herself, and nothing Rambo or Maria can say will dissuade her. Leaving the ranch defiant and full of hope, Gabriela travels to Mexico, but the reunion with her father ends in harsh rejection.

The next morning, when Gabriela doesn't return home, a primal instinct kicks in for Rambo. He sets out to find her, vowing to Maria he will not return without her. On his recon, Rambo's worst fears are realized when he witnesses Gabriela being drugged and abused by dangerous cartel members.

Fueled by guilt and vengeance, Rambo prepares for all-out war. They drew first blood. He will draw last.

HOME

For Sylvester Stallone, returning to Rambo was an opportunity to explore some unexpected facets of the character, while retaining much of what has defined him. "Rambo had been so isolated for so many years, and now he's part of a family," he explains. "That dynamic helps you really understand how he thinks and what makes him tick. This film is quite different from the previous films; it's more personal."

"It's the first time we've seen Rambo in a family setting, and as close as he's ever felt to home in a long time," adds director Adrian Grunberg, who had previously helmed the Mel Gibson-starrer Get the Gringo. "That homelife opens up a part of Rambo that we haven't experienced before in the franchise. We wanted to depict a more human Rambo."

Bringing a newfound, if temporary, sense of humanity and homelife to Rambo are Maria and Gabriela. Acclaimed Mexican actress Adriana Barraza, who earned an Academy Award nomination for her work in Babel, calls Maria "...a strong Mexican woman. She has watched John Rambo grow older and understands he carries a lot of pain, not only in his body, but in his mind. The relationship between Maria and Rambo is really beautiful." Barraza adds that working with Stallone was a key draw. "He's an incredible partner, and when you look into his eyes you can see the character's soul."

Notes producer Kevin King Templeton, a frequent Stallone collaborator: "It was not easy to find an actor who could capture the heart of the character. Adriana is really down to earth and a gifted actor. We went after her for the role and we are thrilled she agreed to join us."

Maria's granddaughter Gabriela is portrayed by rising young star Yvette Monreal, who was recently cast in D.C. Comics, Stargirl. Monreal says her character "is like a step-daughter to Rambo, who he raised her as his own. Gabby understands his PTSD and supports him. When she decides to find her biological father, she travels to Mexico and doesn't come back. Her disappearance alarms Rambo and he sets out to find her."

Even with Gabby and Maria's support, and a successful business and a stable homelife, Rambo remains, at heart, a wounded warrior – a living example of the old saying, you can't go home again. War always finds John Rambo, even if he isn't seeking it.

"Rambo may have come to terms with himself and found home and family, but he's not settled," explains Stallone. "There's no real comfort in his life at the ranch; his body is there, but his mind isn't. He never wants to leave the ranch. He can't get past the PTSD, and everything else he cannot reign in. Rambo finds that life is its own kind of fight and despite being home, he is still at the mercy of events beyond his control."

Helping Rambo navigate the perils of being a veteran he has created a series of labyrinthian tunnels and a bunker under the ranch, where he sleeps, relaxes, and keeps his few belongings and memorabilia. "It's where Rambo feels, at least partly, like he's still dug in, like in a trench," says Grunberg. "It's where Rambo can release his demons. He considers the ranch above the tunnels, which houses Maria and Gabriela, representative of all that is good. The tunnels are his private hell."

Production designer Franco Carbone adds, "Rambo doesn't do anything by half, and the tunnels and bunker had to be the ultimate man cave. It's such an extreme idea that underneath this serene landscape and rolling hills is a maze of underground tunnel systems."

The tunnels are among the lingering aftershocks from his time in combat and his more recent missions. Stallone says they serve as a kind of "therapy indicated for momentary lapses of war that Rambo experiences. They make sense only to him, but at the end of the film they do serve a purpose."

LAST BLOOD

Where does a warrior make his last stand? “Rambo is trying to find an end for his journey,” notes Stallone. “He realizes his job is protect his family; it’s the only thing he’s good at. But Rambo knows if he’s pushed, he’s going to revert back to his true self, even if that’s the last thing he wants. He knows that if what he cares most about is taken away, then he is going to bring retribution, suffering, and death to those responsible.”

The purpose to which Stallone alludes is that of turning his tunnels into a kind of subterranean killing field, where he retaliates against those who would bring death to his family. It’s an epic, vengeance-fueled showdown that is fast-paced, brutal, and intricate. “Rambo uses his survival, stealth and weaponry skills, and his knowledge of the terrain to create these brilliantly engineered traps and weapons, lure his prey to his domain – the tunnels -- and hunt them down one at a time,” notes Grunberg. “But here the stakes are even higher than they were for him during warfare, because they’re grounded in personal loss, grieving and revenge.”

Stallone, Grunberg and second unit director Vern Nobles, who’s worked with Stallone for over 25 years, designed the climactic set piece as an amped-up and visceral return to the kind of survival skills we saw Rambo employ in First Blood. The sequence is marked by a mix of spectacle, rapid-fire action, and savage and merciless executions. “There are many kills, each designed with a beginning, middle and an end,” Grunberg explains. “We see Rambo prepping each deadly trap, which you can trace back to when you see the kills; you have anticipated and envisioned what Rambo is going to do with each trap. We hope it’s an exciting and breathless experience for the audience. They go by quickly because they’ve already been set up. It should be very gratifying to watch.”

“You don’t see Rambo with two rocket launchers in each hand, blowing helicopters out of the sky, like he’s done in some of the previous films,” says producer Les Weldon. “This is the Rambo we met in First Blood, who uses his skills and environment to hunt and trap his prey. There is still plenty of action, gunplay, and vengeance, but it’s all more grounded in reality. This is a Rambo that is going back to his roots.

Bringing the final chapter in the saga of an iconic hero and his journey to moviegoers around the world was an unforgettable experience for the cast and filmmakers. “This film closes a circle for the character and series,” Grunberg sums up. “We really wanted to honor Rambo and all the films by creating a slightly different kind of action movie and story that combines everything audiences love about the character, while putting him in a new environment, and against an enemy unlike any he’s battled. And for those new to the films, we hope they’ll go back and experience what led Rambo to this last war.”

The artist who embodies this legendary figure promises that this closing chapter of an over-30 year cinematic ride will give audiences a jolt unlike any they’ve experienced with the franchise before. “RAMBO: LAST BLOOD will tap into something that never changes: the heart,” says Sylvester Stallone. “At the same time, the story builds and builds to a finale that is seismic, volcanic – and very satisfying.”

PRODUCTION

RAMBO: LAST BLOOD was filmed in Bulgaria and Tenerife, Canary Islands. Production was based at Nu Boyana Studios, in Sofia, Bulgaria, which served as the production offices, as well as home to the art, costume, VFX and SFX departments. Sets that were built on the stages at Boyana included Rambo’s network of underground tunnels and bunker.

Production also utilized the studios' new underwater tank for the scenes in which Rambo's mountain trail is submerged during a vicious storm, and he comes to the rescue of some stranded hikers.

Production filmed inside Vrana King's Palace, the former home of the royal family of Bulgaria, to capture scenes inside the seedy brothel where Rambo discovers Gabriela is being held captive.

Scenes set at Rambo's Arizona ranch were captured at a working horse ranch in the Vitosha National Park on the Balkan Peninsula. The weathered ranch home was built from scratch on location. "The house and barn look like they have been there forever," says Monreal. "It is important to feel your surroundings are believable because it brings so much more life into everything you say and do. They are the foundation of the scene and the attention to detail has been incredible. My greatest pleasure has been working on the ranch."

All the exterior scenes set in Mexico were filmed in Tenerife, in the Canary Islands. Notes Carbone: "I thought it was going to be a challenge to dress and create Mexico in Tenerife. But when I walked into Santa Cruz and saw the favelas that are perched on the hillside, it was perfect: the colors, textures, and Latin/Spanish culture, it's all there.

Weldon adds, "Tenerife is amazing in terms of the variety of landscapes and backdrops. You can be on the beach in the morning and then drive up the mountain through the greenest pine forest you have ever seen; drive a little further and you are in Arizona-like desert, rocky and red. You go further still and it's like you are on the surface of the moon. It is an incredible place to shoot a movie."

Santa Cruz's Barrio Nuevo neighborhood doubled for the Mexican Favela streets where Rambo experiences the wrath of the Martinez brothers. It stands out for being one of the capital's few neighborhoods built on a steep slope.

About the Cast

SYLVESTER STALLONE – “JOHN RAMBO”

Sylvester Stallone has established worldwide recognition as an actor, writer and director since he played the title role in his own screenplay of Rocky, which won the Academy Award© in 1976 for Best Picture. Since that seminal motion picture, Rocky grew to a franchise of five sequels and in 2006 Stallone concluded the series with Rocky Balboa, a critical and audience success which resolutely confirmed both Stallone and Rocky as iconic cultural symbols. In addition, to commemorate a character which has become as real as any living person to film-going audiences around the world, a statue of Rocky Balboa was placed at the foot of the now-famous steps of the Philadelphia Art Museum at a dedication ceremony presided over by the Mayor.

In 2015, 40 years after the original film, Stallone returned to the role of Rocky in Creed for director Ryan Coogler co-starring Michael B. Jordan. His critically-acclaimed performance earned him an Academy Award© nomination for Best Supporting Actor, the Golden Globe Award, National Board of Review and Critic's Choice Awards as well as countless Awards and nominations from National Critic Associations. The role enthralled audiences and solidified Stallone as one of the most enduring and endearing actors of his generation. The sequel, Creed II is now filming on location in Philadelphia. Stallone wrote, directed and starred in Rambo, which continued the saga of Vietnam vet John Rambo twenty five years after the debut of Rambo: First Blood. For the latest installment, Stallone took the company on location to the inner jungles of Burma basing the compelling story in a country where crimes against humanity, civil war and genocide have existed for over 60 years – and no one is doing anything about it.

Stallone then released his most ambitious project, the action thriller The Expendables, which he has wrote, directed and starred in, and for which he hired an all star cast including Jason Statham, Mickey Rourke, Jet Li, Eric Roberts, Dolph Lungren and Steve Austin – as well as Bruce Willis and Arnold Schwarzenegger which opened to Number One at the Box Office – making him the only actor to open a Number One Film across Five Decades. Sly took the company on location to the interior of Brazil and the city streets New Orleans, filming over just a few short months. Born in New York City, Stallone attended school in suburban Philadelphia where he first started acting and also became a star football player. He then spent two years instructing at the American College of Switzerland in Geneva. Returning to the United States, he enrolled as a drama major at the University of Miami and also began to write. Stallone left college to pursue an acting career in New York City, but the jobs did not come easily. By 1973, Stallone had auditioned for almost every casting agent in New York and had gone on thousands of acting calls, with little success. During this period, he turned more and more to writing, churning out numerous screenplays while waiting for his acting break. The opportunity first came in 1974 when he was cast as one of the leads in The Lords of Flatbush. He also received his first writing credit for “additional dialogue” on this film.

With the money earned from that film, Stallone left New York for Hollywood. He again began to make the rounds of studios and casting agents, managing to get a few small roles in television and movies. He also continued to pursue writing.

Prize fighter Rocky Balboa was born and given life in a script Stallone wrote in longhand. Several producers offered to buy the screenplay, wanting to cast a name star in the title role, which Stallone insisted on playing himself. Although his bank balance was barely $100, Stallone held fast with his perseverance finally paying off in a big way. In addition to Rocky Balboa and Rambo, Stallone's credits as actor/writer/director are Rocky II and Paradise Alley. As actor and co-writer, Stallone filmed F.I.S.T., First Blood, Rambo: First Blood Part II, Rhinestone and Rambo III. He co-wrote, directed and produced Staying Alive and starred in Nighthawks, Victory, Tango & Cash and Lock Up. Rocky V, starring and written by Stallone and directed by John Avildsen, opened in 1990.

He also starred in Demolition Man, which set box-office records for its Fall 1993 release and in the films The Specialist, Assassins and Daylight.

Stallone starred in the challenging and unique role of Freddy Heflin, in the Miramax feature film Copland, which has garnered him further international critical and audience acclaim.

He had the starring role in Get Carter for Warner Brothers co-starring Michael Caine, which opened in the Fall of 2000. Stallone wrote and starred in the number one box office race-car thriller Driven, co-starring Burt Reynolds and Christian de la Fuente. In addition, he filmed Avenging Angelo, co-starring Madeline Stowe. Both films were for the Warner Bros.

He also starred in the role of "The Toymaker" for director Robert Rodriguez in the hit film Spy Kids 3, the final installment of that successful film franchise.

He was associated with The Contender, a powerful and action-packed unscripted series which aired on the NBC Television Network and then ESPN.

In 2002 Stallone was honored by the Video Dealers Software Association when he was presented with the "Action Star of the Millennium Award" at the Organization's 21st Annual Convention.

In addition, Stallone's influence and appreciation are acknowledged worldwide. In 2008 The Zurich Film Festival presented him with the Festival's Inaugural Golden Icon Award, which recognized his achievements as a great American Actor and Filmmaker and in 2009, The Venice Film Festival honored Stallone with their Glory to the Filmmaker Award. For the release of The Expendables Stallone was honored at the Spike TV's Guy's Choice Awards with the coveted GuyCon Award, presented by Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger. He was also feted at the 2010 Los Angeles Film Festival as the event's Honored Guest and received the Visionary Award at the Hollywood Reporter Key Arts 2010 Event. At the 2010 Comicon Convention, he was the first inductee into the IGN Action Hero Hall of Fame.

The Expendables 2, the highly-anticipated sequel opened to Number One at the Box Office. Shot on location in Bulgaria, Stallone wrote and starred in the film along with Arnold Schwarzenegger, Bruce Willis Jason Statham and the original Expendables cast. Liam Hemsworth, Jean-Claude Van Damme and Chuck Norris also starred.

Stallone appeared in Bullet To the Head for director Walter Hill for Warner Bros. Studios, Escape Plan co-starring with Arnold Schwarzenegger for Summit Pictures and he starred with Robert DeNiro in the Warner Bros feature Grudge Match. He starred in Expendables 3 with many of the original cast and included the additions of Mel Gibson, Harrison Ford and Antonio Bandaras. The film was also shot on location in Bulgaria.

Stallone had a pivotal role in Guardians of the Galaxy 2 which he will reprise in the next film of the franchise, He subsequently made Escape Plan 2 and 3. He will be seen in Rambo: Last Blood later this year.

In March, 2014 Rocky the Musical opened at The Winter Garden on Broadway. The Musical was based on the original film written by Stallone and earned a Best Actor Tony nomination for the play's star, Andy Karl.

Currently, Stallone is one of eight iconic film directors who have partnered with Starlight Culture Entertainment to develop motion picture projects and intellectual properties. The collaboration includes such revered directors as Robert Zemeckis, James Wan, F. Gary Gray and Alan Taylor.

Stallone is also establishing Balboa, his own production company which will create and distribute film and television projects including a biopic on famed boxer Joe Jackson and a recently announced project with A&E.

In addition to his extensive film career, Stallone is an accomplished artist, completing paintings on canvas as well as sculpture work. He has had impressive exhibitions at Art Basil, The Russian State Museum and most recently at the Nice Museum of Contemporary Art in France.

PAZ VEGA – "CARMEN"

Paz Vega can be seen in the upcoming Rambo: Lost Blood starring opposite Sylvester Stallone.

Some of her recent credits include: The OA Part I and Part II on Netflix, Acts of Vengeance starring opposite Antonio Banderas, American Nights starring opposite Emile Hirsch, All Roads Lead to Rome starring opposite Sarah Jessica Parker and Emperor starring opposite Adrien Brody.

Paz portrayed Maria Callas alongside Nicole Kidman, Tim Roth, and Frank Langella in Grace of Monaco. She has also appeared in Frank Miller's The Spirit, directed by Frank Miller with Gabriel Macht, Samuel L. Jackson, and Scarlett Johansson; 10 Items or Less, with Morgan Freeman and Jonah Hill; Triage opposite Colin Farrell; Pedro Almodovar's I'm So Excited; Beautiful & Twisted opposite Rob Lowe; Kill the Messenger opposite Jeremy Renner for Focus Features; and Spanglish, with Adam Sandler and Téa Leoni.

In Spain, Paz is well-known for starring in the series 7 Vidas, billed as the Spanish Friends and one of the country's best-loved sitcoms. She has starred in such Spanish films as Carmen, Talk to Her, and Sex and Lucia. She also works as a model and, in May 2011, became the face of L'Oréal Spain.

SERGIO PERIS – MENCHETA – "HUGO MARTINEZ"

Renowned Spanish actor Sergio Peris-Mencheta currently stars as a series regular the FX original series, Snowfall. He will also be seen later this year in the feature RAMBO V: LAST BLOOD, directed by Adrian Grunberg, starring opposite Sylvester Stallone. Peris-Mencheta previously starred in Dan Fogelman's LIFE ITSELF, opposite Annette Benning, Oscar Isaac, Antonio Banderas, and Olivia Wilde, as well as in LOVE RANCH (directed by Taylor Hackford) opposite Helen Mirren, and in RESIDENT EVIL: AFTERLIFE. In Europe, amongst other projects, he is known for his work in HIS MAJESTY MINOR directed by Jean-Jacques Annaud and THE BORGIA. Peris-Mencheta is also a passionate theatre actor and director who has won a Max award (the equivalent of a Tony award in Spain) for best theater play in 2014.

Sergio Peris-Mencheta has slowly become one of Hollywood's most well recognized Spanish actors.

He began his acting career with the Spanish sleeper hit series AL SALIR DE CLASE, alongside fellow breakout Spanish stars Elsa Patky, Alejo Sauras, and Hugo Silva. Afterwards he appeared in several series including ROBLES, INVESITGADOR and LOBOS while also working on Spanish films such as JARA, THE ART OF DYING, and LESS IS MORE. Sergio continued appearing in European productions including HIS MAJESTY MINOR (directed by Jean-Jacques Annaud) and THE BORGIA, until finally breaking into the Hollywood scene opposite Helen Mirren with LOVE RANCH (directed by Taylor Hackford) and in box office smash RESIDENT EVIL: AFTERLIFE. During this time he was also nominated by the Union de Actores for his roles in TIERRA DE LOBOS and ISABEL.

All the while, Sergio has had a deep passion for directing and acting in theatrical productions, including ROMEO AND JULIET, INCREMENTUM, and CONTINUIDAD DE LOS PARQUES. In 2014 he won the Max award (the equivalent of a Tony award in Spain) for Best Director for his production of UN TROZO INVISIBLE DE ESTE MUNDO.

Sergio recently starred in the Dan Fogelman film LIFE ITSELF, opposite Annette Benning, Oscar Isaac, Antonio Banderas, and Olivia Wilde, and continues in the FX original series SNOWFALL. Most recently, Sergio will face off, playing the chief antagonist, against the one and only Sylvester Stallone in RAMBO V: LAST BLOOD.

ADRIANA BARRAZA – "MARIA BELTRAN"

Born in Toluca, Mexico, Academy Award and Golden Globe nominee Adriana Barraza is considered one of the most accomplished and respected Latina film and television actresses in the entertainment industry. With an award-winning career of almost 40 years in film, television and theater, Forbes Magazine Latin America in 2018 named Adriana the most influential Latina film actress and one of the 100 most powerful Latin American actors of all time. Adriana began her career as an actress with Televisa networks in Mexico. Her incredible gift as an actor lead to her working partnership with the legendary Mexican director Sergio Jiménez, aka El Profe. Known in Mexico as "La Maestra Barraza", Sergio and Adriana created the Actors Workshop in Mexico City. Together they taught and developed their own version of Method acting which led to Adriana's accomplished career directing telenovelas, and coaching some of the most successful Latin America actors of our time. In 1999, Academy Award winning director Alejandro González Iñárritu (The Revenant, Birdman) cast Adriana in her big breakthrough role in film as the mother of Gael García Bernal's character in the film Amores Perros, which was nominated for an Academy Award for Best Foreign Language Film.

In 2006, she re-collaborated with Iñárritu in Babel opposite Brad Pitt, Cate Blanchett and Gael Garcia Bernal, and became one of now only 6 Mexican actresses to ever receive an Academy Award nomination for Best Supporting Actress. Some of Barraza's most notable film credits include Cake opposite Jennifer Aniston, The 33 directed by Patricia Riggen, Thor opposite Chris Hemsworth, the worldwide hit Dora and the Lost City of Gold, and the upcoming feature films Rambo: Last Blood opposite Sylvester Stallone, and We Can Be Heroes directed by Robert Rodriguez. She can also be seen in the successful short film Bibi opposite actor JM Longoria (Miracles From Heaven). Barraza has also had an incredible career in television and has starred in successful series that including Capadocia, The Strain, Al Otro Lado Del Muro, Narcos and Snowfall. Currently she is filming one of the lead roles in the upcoming, highly anticipated new season of Penny Dreadful: City of Angels on Showtime. Adriana is also the Artistic Director of her own successful acting school in Miami, Florida titled Adriana Barraza Acting Studio. Instructors at the school include her husband Arnaldo and daughter Carolina.

YVETTE MONREAL – "GABRIELA"

Yvette Monreal is a multi-talented actress, portraying an array of complex and powerful characters that continue to grow her career in film and television.

Monreal will next be seen in Adrian Grunberg's "Rambo V: Last Blood" opposite Sylvester Stallone. The fifth installment of the franchise finds Rambo crossing the U.S./Mexican border to confront the full might of Mexico's most violent drug cartels when the daughter of one of his associates is kidnapped. Monreal will portray the role of the virtuous and supportive 'Gabrielle' who helps take care of 'Rambo' on his ranch and looks up to him as a protector before she is kidnapped and trafficked by the cartel. Lionsgate debuted the trailer at Cannes and will release the film on September 20th worldwide.

Monreal is currently filming a leading role in DC Universe's "Stargirl" alongside Luke Wilson and Brec Bassinger. Her character is currently unannounced, but she is part of the central group of teens that makeup the new Justice League with incredible costuming and action.

Previously, Monreal starred on Robert Rodriguez' series "Matador" and was also seen in Universal's "Lowriders" opposite Gabriel Chavarria, Demian Bichir and Theo Rossi. The film is an inspirational drama that is set in the East Los Angeles world of lowrider cars and street tagging. The story follows a teen (Chavarria) caught between his traditional father (Bichir) and his estranged gangbanger brother, 'Ghost' (Rossi), who are both competing in the annual lowrider "Supershow." Monreal starred as the romantic interest for Chavarria, taking on the role of the smart and talented 'Claudia,' a fellow tagger who also has a scholarship to Columbia University. Monreal's early television work includes memorable arcs on MTV's "Faking It" and ABC Family's "The Fosters."

Monreal currently resides in Los Angeles.

OSCAR JAENADA – "VICTOR MARTINEZ"

Oscar Jaenada can currently be seen starring in the Netflix international series, LUIS MIGUEL, which premiered on April 22nd, 2018.

He recently wrapped on the Lionsgate feature film, CHAOS WALKING, directed by Doug Liman. Oscar will star opposite Tom Holland, Daisy Ridley, Mads Mikkelsen, Demian Bichir, and Nick Jonas. And he just finished shooting the lead in the Amazon series HERNÁN, based on the life and travels of Hernán Cortés where Oscar will portray the infamous conquistador.

Oscar also recently starred in the highly anticipated Spanish film ORO, directed by Agustin Diaz Yanes opposite Barbara Lennie. Based on the work by the historical novelist Arturo Perez Reverte.

Jaenada co-starred in the 20th Century Fox film, SNATCHED, as the lead villain opposite Amy Schumer and Goldie Hawn. He also co-starred in the Cannes 2018 Film Festival closing film, THE MAN WHO KILLED DON QUIXOTE, directed by Terry Gilliam. He starred opposite Adam Driver, Stellan Skarsgard, Olga Kurylenko, and Jonathan Price.

Additionally, he wrapped a major supporting role in Fernando Leon de Aranoa directed Millennium films feature, LOVING PABLO, opposite Penelope Cruz and Javier Bardem, which premiered at TIFF last year.

Prior to this, Jaenada can be seen opposite Blake Lively in the Jaime Collet-Sera directed Sony feature, THE SHALLOWS.

Most notably, Jaenada played the Mexican icon Mario Moreno in Pantelion's hit film CANTINFLAS, which was the highest grossing foreign language film of 2014. The performance has been described by critics as "career defining." The film was Mexico's 2015 foreign language Oscar submission.

Since being nominated for the coveted Goya (Spain's Academy Award) for his portrayal of an experimental theater artist in NOVEMBER and then eventually winning the Goya for his stunning portrayal of Camaron de la Isla, the legendary Spanish flamenco dancer, in CAMARON: WHEN FLAMENCO BECAME LEGEND, Jaenada has gone on to garner international recognition with a starring role in the Disney blockbuster PIRATES OF THE CARIBBEAN: ON STRANGER TIDES as well as a starring role opposite Zoe Saldana and Chris Evans in Warner Brothers' The Losers. He also received critical praise for his role in Steven Soderbergh's CHE.

Jaenada's other recent credits include the Roberto Duran biopic HANDS OF STONE with Robert DeNiro and Edgar Ramirez, which was released wide in the summer of 2016, as well as the romantic drama AFTER WORDS, alongside Marcia Gay Harden.

About the Filmmakers

ADRIAN GRUNBERG – DIRECTOR

Adrian Grunberg is a Spanish writer/director whose upcoming feature RAMBO: LAST BLOOD starring Sylvester Stallone, Paz Vega and Oscar Jaenada is premiering this month. Grunberg directed and co-wrote the film GET THE GRINGO. Grunberg has also worked as first assistant director on such films as WALL STREET: MONEY NEVER SLEEPS, EDGE OF DARKNESS and APOCALYPTO and was second unit director on 20 episodes of NARCOS.

Tyler composed the score for blockbuster hits such as Avengers: Age of Ultron, Furious 7, Iron Man 3, Thor: The Dark World, and the breakout hit Crazy Rich Asians featuring a big band jazz and romantic string score that was voted to the 2019 Oscar shortlist for Best Original Score. In addition, he scored Eagle Eye for producer Steven Spielberg, The Mummy starring Tom Cruise, and The Fate of the Furious which had the biggest global box office opening of all time. He also composed the theme for Formula 1 which airs during the global broadcast of every race. Tyler often conducts the London Philharmonic, the Philharmonia Orchestra of London, and the Hollywood Studio Symphony for his projects. He was nominated for a 2014 BAFTA Award and was inducted into the music branch of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in 2010. His films have grossed $13 billion worldwide making him the 9th highest grossing film composer of all-time.

Recent projects include the comedy What Men Want directed by Adam Shankman, the heartfelt romance Five Feet Apart directed by Justin Baldoni, DC Comic's Swamp Thing for James Wan, and the dark-comedy thriller Ready or Not directed by Matt Bettinelli-Olpin & Tyler Gillett. Upcoming projects include Charlie's Angels directed by Elizabeth Banks from Sony Pictures opening in November 2019.

Tyler began scoring features shortly after completing his master's degree from Harvard University and receiving a bachelor's degree from UCLA. In 2003, after composing the score for The Hunted for Academy Award-winning director William Friedkin, Tyler wrote the score for the turn-of-the-century drama The Greatest Game Ever Played starring Shia LaBeouf in 2005. He also scored The Expendables films and Rambo (both directed by Sylvester Stallone), Taylor Sheridan's Yellowstone (which won the SoundTrackFest Award for Best TV Score of 2018) with the second season having premiered in June 2019, the 2017 hit Power Rangers, and co-composed One Strange Rock with pop artist Zedd for director Paul Thomas Anderson. Tyler also wrote the score for the 2015 feature film Truth starring Cate Blanchett as Mary Mapes and Robert Redford as Dan Rather.

A multi-instrumentalist and orchestral conductor, Tyler is skilled in playing piano, guitar, drums, bass, cello, world percussion, guitarviol, charango and bouzouki, amongst others. He showcased this range of expertise for the retro heist film Now You See Me and its sequel. Tyler also conducts symphonic concerts of his film music around the globe including multiple concerts with the London Philharmonia Orchestra at Royal Festival Hall, the Warsaw Philharmonic at Tauron Arena, and at the historic Dolby Theatre in Los Angeles with the Chinese National Orchestra. Along with scoring the 2014 Michael Bay-produced film Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, Tyler wrote and produced the movie's theme song Shell Shocked under his electronic music alter-ego Madsonik. The song features multiplatinum-selling artist Wiz Khalifa, Ty Dolla $ign, and Kill the Noise. The song was certified platinum by RIAA. He also collaborated with Rage Against the Machine's Tom Morello on the hit song Divebomb.

His score for Bill Paxton's Frailty won him a World Soundtrack Award in 2002, as well as The World Soundtrack Award for Best New Film Composer of the Year. Additionally, Tyler has received 32 BMI Music Awards, 5 ASCAP Music Awards, 3 Emmy Award nominations, and won 12 Goldspirit Awards, including Composer of the Year. Tyler's soundtracks are mainstays on the charts, with his work for Children of Dune reaching No. 4 on Amazon Music's album charts while Avengers: Age of Ultron, Furious 7, Thor: The Dark World, Iron Man 3, and Fast Five have all hit No. 1 on the iTunes soundtrack charts.

In addition to his resume of films, Tyler arranged and conducted the film logo music for Universal Pictures. He also composed the music for the Marvel Studios logo in 2014. Tyler created the theme music for the NFL on ESPN in 2014 as well as composed the theme for the U.S. Open Championships now airing annually on FOX. His television series credits include Scorpion, Magnum PI, and Hawaii Five-0 and he has received Emmy nominations for Last Call, Sleepy Hollow, and Transformers: Prime.
